The Irish Association for Applied Linguistics (IRAAL) was founded in 1975 in order to support research in applied and general linguistics in Ireland. It pursues this aim principally by organizing seminars, special lectures, conferences, and courses, and by a publications programme which includes Teanga: The Irish Yearbook of Applied Linguistics, as well as special volumes on specific topics. IRAAL is affiliated to the International Association for Applied Linguistics (AILA). Membership of IRAAL is open to all those with a professional and/or research interest in issues and problems which have to do with language.
